

From the Principal's Desk:

It gives me immense pleasure to know that the family members of this Kalyani Government Engineering College is publishing the seventh issue of the technical journal of this college. The publication of this magazine, which is essentially a technical one, reveals once again that the students of this college are confined not only to their regular studies for the examinations, but in addition they roam about various corners of knowledge to quench their thirst of curiosity in all respects. Joining hands to the students, it is needless to mention, the faculty and staff members of this college have also come forward by their untiring efforts to bring forth an utter success for such a publication which is not only prestigious but also very helpful to all community of people having thirst of technical information, peeping various corners across the globe.

Finally, I strongly believe we will be able to continue this sort of publication, as all of this college are unitedly determined to make a name of fame of this college.

Prof. Achintya Das

Principal, officiating

Kalyani Government Engineering College